Dedication

The 1992 Echo is dedicated to the Dean for Student Development, Tiffany McKillip, an important staff member who has had a positive influence on Greensboro College. This is her fourth year at GC and she jokes that she is a "Senior" this year. Dean McKillip graduated from Ohio Dominican College with a B.A. in Business and Economics. She went on to Ohio State University to earn a M.A. degree in Education.

Dean McKillip remarks that she believes that this is the best year GC has had since she has been here. She states that, "everything the students and staff have been working on is finally coming together." She is very excited and proud to see the students taking initiative and getting involved on campus. She remarks that it is like the students have, "planted little seeds that have begun to grow." What can we say, it's a green thing.

It's a Green Thing

Welcome to Greensboro College and its 1991-92 school year. GC truly is a green place. From its emphasis on recycling to the money that is spent ordering pizzas to the green uniforms that the sports teams wear to its luscious campus, GC is a green place. The atmosphere at GC is one of enthusiasm for learning and growing. We do have our lapses, but just as a plant renews itself in the Spring, GC blooms again. We can't quite explain it, you just have to experience it for yourself. It's a green thing!!!

Chris Connell and Sally Green "hold down the fort" in this classroom in the A&S building.

Up, up, and away. GC enjoys an exciting ride in the hot-air balloon at homecoming.

Robin Hancock and Lisa Brubaker talk about current events in passing while walking across campus.

With the balloon and the shirts of Carmel High School, Cleve Patrick, and Tara Thompson we catch a glimpse of the rainbow.

A Green Day at GC

GC is a place where a lot is happening. You can see the activity at any hour of the day. Students are in class, hanging out in the Stu, studying in the commuter lounge, or in their rooms watching TV. Also, everyone enjoys those special events that occur at GC like Homecoming and Club Carnival. No matter what you see the students at GC doing, you know they are having fun because GC is the place to be!

While hanging out with friends in the Stu, Joey Berry and Mike Cunningham enjoy a leisurely game of pool.

Dorothy (played by Lynda Matthews) and the kids of alumni and faculty are off to see the Wizard in the Homecoming parade.

Heather Allison, Jack Gorham, Josh Travis, Evelyn Teague, and Brian Foster show that the true meaning of QC is friendship.

On any green day at QC you can see beautiful scenes of the campus just like the one that Tonya Brown is enjoying.

As this student takes the lonely path to the library he is contented with the thought that all of his hard work will pay off.

Club Carnival

At Greensboro College everyone is very excited about getting involved with clubs and organizations. One way that the clubs make themselves known to the students is the annual event called Club Carnival. At the beginning of each year, all of the clubs have an "expo" on the front campus where students can see the wide variety of organizations which are active at GC. This is a fun afternoon full of laughs, food, and games. However, a student has to be careful at this event, many clubs will try to get them to sign-up. A student must be very picky in choosing clubs to join because each club expects 100% commitment from every member. There are many clubs to pick from, almost forty, which is a large number for a school the size of GC. Club Carnival shows the great amount of spirit that GC students have.

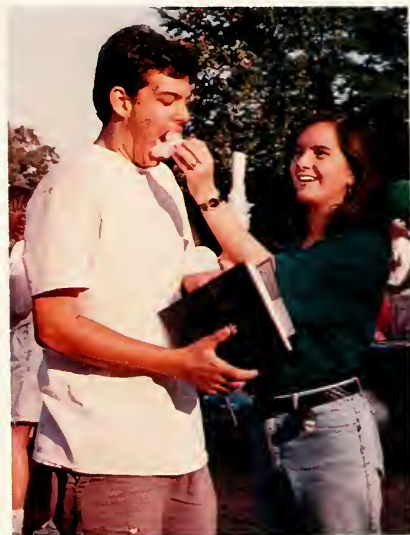

Right: Jennifer O'Neill gives away her great smile and candy for Greensboro Hall Council. Right below: Tica Davis, UAAS, and Monique Partee, NCSL, enjoy working at their booths and meeting new friends and potential club members. Below: Traci Lewis listens to Joe Lovelock and Susannah Sizemore exalt the positive qualities of the Fine Arts Club.

Bobbi Kotrba, Lauren Coiller, Todd Hyatt, and Sarah (Bobbi's dog) commune on the front campus.

Claire Cooper likes to feed friendly animals, like Jack Gorham, with cotton candy.

As the evening's activities get into full swing, Shannon Virtue shows her virtuous smile.

Lesley Burke and daughter Lindsey soak Coach John Burke at the dunking booth.

From the top, Carol Thomas has some fun as she works. Ammiel Mateen is ready to relax after a long day. Pat Williams and Becky Davidson dance the night away. Right, soccer fans.

Campus Life

Jill Harper, Rick Loftis, Stephen Moffitt, Andy Snow, Brad Apple, and Meredith Snoddy share a bench and a few laughs at the Club Camival. Don't forget to join a club or organization while you are having fun.

Ashley Fuquay chomps a roasted marshmellow at the Homecoming bon-fire. The Pep-band was also present at the bon-fire to liven spirits.

David Leipziger enjoys a cool drink from the Stu's snack bar as he watches a soccer game. You can see GC students participating in many outside activities that range from studying to talking to playing Frisbee.

"What are they going to do to West?" Nick Daniels tells Karen Marrow's future at Fall Fest while Amy Nixon gives some support.

Stacey Krzywicki and Linda Super good-heartedly make fun of the visiting Trojans.

Goalie Lee Powell is the last Hor-net to be introduced to the crowd before the game with Mount Olive.

Homecoming

Homecoming is that time of year when students are seen giving extra support to our Soccer Hornets and to our hallowed institution. It is also the time of year when we see alumni returning to QC. This year's theme was "There's No Place Like Greensboro College" along with a Wizard of Oz decor. The Hornets defeated the Mount Olive Trojans with a remarkable five to zero victory. The parade, dance, game, and bon-fire showed the spirit that QC students have. Homecoming was truly a "green thing."

The Wizard of Oz gang get ready to tour the campus and hand out balloons and candy to kids.

With the pep rally bon-fire ablaze, many students, including Kent Bighinatti, roasted marshmallows.

"Time Out" at GC

Austin Chandler, director of QC's Counseling Center, signs a mural of signatures at Fall Fest.

Jimmy LaRoue and Nikki Robinson enjoy an evening of dancing at QC's Homecoming.

Dapo Frederick watches the festivities as the Senior's Frisbee — Golf Tournament proceeds.

In the Dorm

It's three a.m. You've just fallen into a deep, peaceful sleep. Suddenly, from the room next door, blares Metallica, loud enough to wake the dead. Ah, home sweet home! Most of us are familiar with this scenario. Sure, at 3:00 a.m. it doesn't seem like much fun, but living on campus is an experience that most college students will remember fondly.

Loneliness is not much of a problem, if your roommate happens to be out, you can always find somebody on the hall. Your friends on the hall can be a good break from the mundane work of the day. You can all get together and catch your favorite T.V. show, listen to music, or go play some ball. Even though the dorm is your home away from home, there is always someone on the phone catching up on news from their hometown.

Ashley Franson takes advantage of a quiet hall to make an important call.

Whether its playing gameboy or basketball, Robert Izzo and David Napper always stay busy.

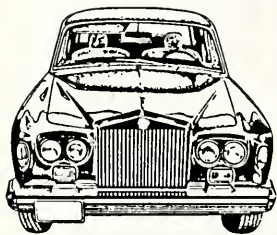

Roommates Sandy Fields and Jennifer York invite Kim Carew to join them for afternoon soaps.

Commuters

Shannon Humble finds that aerobics is a good way to lessen the hassles of commuting as she goes through a strong workout.

Joey Berry operates the club's popcorn machine at Club Carnival.

Without a dorm room to go to, Eric Krpejs finds a comfortable couch in Cowan to take a catnap.

Between classes, Tamara Wilson studies in the Stu.

There are about 300 Commuter students attending Greensboro College this year. They include the traditional students who live off-campus as well as the Life-Long Learner students who have decided to come back to school for more education. The Commuters have formed a club and plan activities as well as work with the staff and faculty. The members had two luncheons with pizza and drinks in the Commuter Lounge this year. The club's president, Joey Berry, got its yearly activities off to a good start by setting up a popcorn stand at Club Carnival. Future club plans include performing a community service project and a Vegas Night. The Commuters also had an excellent intramural tag football team. The team represented the Commuter Club in a very positive way.

What? An empty space in the commuter parking lot?

Hitting the Books

Remember high school? Studying then was forced upon you by your parents. Now, in college, you are responsible for your own studying, and keeping talkative friends at bay. College students find a way to study that is best for them. Whether it is an isolated corner of the Library or a corner of your dorm room, the main goal is to get the job done. Many find it easier to work in groups (which usually turn into joke sessions) or with just one partner, be it a person or a pizza. All over campus, students are putting their new study habits to good use.

ABOVE: Tiffany Pickard finds a secluded spot in the Library to curl up and study. RIGHT: On such a beautiful day, Evelyn Teague just couldn't stay inside.

Leane Hutchinson uses the most comfortable spot in her room to study Sociology.

Studying can sometimes be fun as Linda Super, Bill Johnson, and Stacey Krzywicki prove.

Life in the Cafeteria

BELOW: Perry Clark, Anna Rumsey, and Walter Scott top off a delicious dinner. RIGHT: A fresh salad is always an option. Beth Lewis selects her favorite items.

Umm-Umm Good!

For dessert Mike Faulkner chooses a frozen yogurt swirl.

LEFT: All students, including Emily Elliot, like to visit with friends during meals. BELOW: Mary Tatum prepares an elegant salad tray for a special occasion.

Fun-Filled-Fall-Fest

A Family Weekend on Campus

Family Weekend is one of the favorite times of year around the Greensboro College campus. Students can actually be seen cleaning their dorm rooms in preparation for their parents' visit. This year, family weekend was improved with the addition of the Fall Fest activities. The weekend started off with an evening picnic with the Stage Band as entertainment. The festivities continued the following day with activities sponsored by GC clubs. Students and their families could enjoy such things as tarot readings, water grenade fights, badminton, face painting, and watercoloring. It was nice to see GC families active together.

Jeremy Kinney plays a fabulous bass solo at the picnic as impressed parents and students watch the Stage Band presentation.

Becki McLamb, her mother, Merrie, and brother, Josh, enjoy the fine food offered at President Likin's reception.

Valerie Pierce "sings up a storm" along with the GC Chorale Society and even a few alumni members.

It is a real stretch for Bill Johnson to retrieve a wet Frisbee from the fountain on front campus.

That's the GC family spirit!!! Lynette Charles and her family take in the sights and sounds of Fall Fest. Lynette's mother and father, Phil and Joyce, and nephew Elijah traveled all the way from New Jersey for the weekend.

Work-Study

Students earn money in many ways, one of which is the infamous work-study program. Whether taking care of business, having fun in the Stu, or just visiting staff or friends, it is not hard to find a work-study student getting the job done. There are work-study participants in virtually every place on campus. Many work-study students say, "Work-study is great because it always fits in your schedule, it is right on campus so it is ideal if you don't have transportation, and the work is not too hard!" So next time you are in the Stu, the Main Building, the Computer Lab, or just about anywhere else on campus, you are bound to see a student getting the job done!

STU-pendous . . .

Greensboro College's Student Center

The STU . . . place of wonder, place of magic. Yes, the STU, sometimes referred to as the Student Center, is definitely the place to be. From playing pool to watching a movie, the fun is endless and the moments are eternal. Dee Dee Evans says that "It's a great place to meet people!" Pool enthusiasts beware, for in those lurksome waters of the STU swims the dreaded pool shark of Greenboro College, waiting to attack an undeserving soul! If pool is not one's game, then one may also try their luck at table soccer, pinball, ping pong, or just eating dinner there. What can one say? The STU is STU-pendous!

Linda Super awaits anxiously to serve someone at the snackbar during the STU's all-nighter.

Kevin Londeree, alias "Shroom", tries not to scratch as he demonstrates his amazing skills at pool.

Smiles galore from these ladies, Shannon Keely and Kerri Bruno, watching STU-TV.

"Gosh, this is easy!" thinks Ben Young as he shows everyone his ping pong expertise.

Tara Thompson and Tammie Hunter show us that the STU can be a good place to study.

Christmas

Music instructor John Simons leads the choral procession at the Festival of Lessons and Carols.

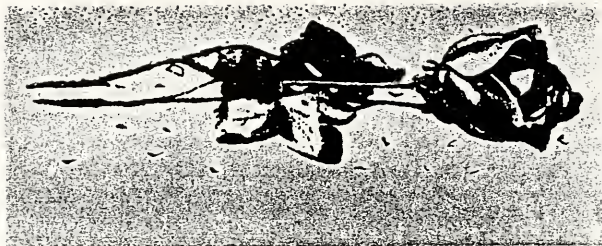

Gretchen Johnson and Hollie Fish finally make their way to the main dish at the annual Christmas dinner.

Elizabeth Glenn and Andrew Cole quietly await the crowd.

Cindy Mock and friends Julie, Michelle, Tracy, and Claire convince Jeff Brown that he will dance with them.

Getting into the spirit of the year's big dance, Nikki Robinson models her moves with partner Roger Rogers.

Spring Fling

The Junior Class kicked off Spring Fling with a Bring-Your-Own-Tape Party on front campus Friday night, April 10th.

Saturday's events included the Third Annual Coed-Volleyball Sandblaster sponsored by Jean Lojko and the Volleyball Team. John Burke and Scott Swan organized the "Battle of the Sexes." A large Beach Party was held on front campus from 2 to 6 p.m. This included three above-ground pools, a slip-and-slide, hula hoops, giant Twister, free beverages, tables with umbrellas, and frisbee. The Campus Activities Board members worked six hours to unload and set up the Beach Party.

The finale for Saturday's events was a dance also held on front campus. The videos and music by S and L Sound were well-received, and the dance crowd arrived earlier than usual to dance the night away.
